Description

In a prominent setting around 100 metres above sea level is this varied younger woodland that is fast establishing within the local rolling Devonshire hills. Known as Woolstone Wood, a local place name thought to have derived from the Old English personal name 'Wulfrīc' and Tun, which was an old name for a fence that evolved to mean 'enclosure'.

The variety of trees allow for both a wild space to enjoy along with areas of planted conifer trees that can be thinned to make a useful timber supply.

A good stoned track allows year round enjoyment and an open grassy glade is ideally suited for overnight camping.

The purchasers of the woodland will be asked to enter into a covenant to ensure the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of adjoining woodlands and meadows.

Trees

A mosaic of tree types inhabit Woolstone Wood and provide a varied landscape and habitat. Central and to the south is a stand of Japanese larch, a deciduous conifer meaning that it sheds its needles in the winter. Larch trees give a vibrant autumnal colour to the landscape when the needles turn orange and get ready to drop.

The central, northern part of the woodland is an area of Douglas fir trees, a valuable timber resource for construction. Mixed in with these trees are native trees such as ash, hazel and rowan.

Wildlife

The woodland has many habitats including an open glade, dense shrub areas and towering trees that are ideal places for wildlife such as badgers, owls, rabbits and deer. There are also areas of moist ground that are perfect for frogs. The open grassy frontage and internal rides are favoured by an amazing array of butterflies on warmer sunny days.

Features

At the entrance is a level grassy glade which can be utilised as a pleasant camping area, on cloudless days this area is a natural sun trap.

Old boundary banks are found at the heart of Woolstone Wood - these are probably hundreds of years old. Large beech trees have grown from these banks and form an impressive row of towering trees.

Access, tracks and footpaths

Access to the woodland is via a quiet country lane that leads to the entrance gate. Once inside there is a stoned forestry track which leads all the way to the parking area and entrance of the woodland.

There are no public footpaths through the wood. At the northern edge of Woolstone Wood a private gateway leads onto an old green lane, providing opportunities for walking and cycling around the leafy lanes of this beautiful part of north Devon.

Rights and covenants

The sporting rights are in hand and included in the sale.

The purchasers of the woodland will be asked to enter into a covenant to ensure the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of adjoining woodlands and meadows.

Activities

This woodland is in an ideal area to spend a well-deserved relaxing time amongst some amazing wildlife. To perfectly capture this, you could set up some wildlife cameras. This could also be a place to have time camping with your family.

Constructing a cover or a store for tools and equipment which can also double as a wildlife hide is a fun project undertaken by many of our buyers.

Local area and history

The woodland is situated just west of the village of Swimbridge. This former manor of Devon is located 4 miles south-east of Barnstaple.

This part of Devon is a fascinating place to explore the best of the north Devon coast with beautiful surfing beaches at Croyde and Woolacombe.

The City of Exeter is just under 40 miles away. Exeter boasts a League One football team and one of the country's best rugby teams, Exeter Chiefs. The city centre has numerous restaurants of different cuisines and shops that accommodate most tastes.

Particulars and plans were prepared by our local manager, Stuart Brooking with some contributions from Theo Herbert, who also contributed some of the photos.
