Description

Kiln Pond Wood is an attractive woodland, mostly comprised of mature native broadleaved trees, at the north-western end of Goldsborough Wood, conveniently located close to Knaresborough, within half an hour's drive from Harrogate, and 40 minutes from central York and Leeds.

The wood has a very private feel, with no public footpaths running through it and situated as it is near the end of the track.

Trees within the wood include lots of beautiful mature oak trees, a small area of Scots pine, sycamore, birch, beech and a few mixed conifers. The understorey is made up of coppiced hazel, elder, hawthorn, wild rose and blackberry, balsam, bracken and native ferns.

A ride-stop entrance is located to the side of the main track, where there is space to park a car. A circular foot route leads off directly from here, taking a loop through the wood, crossing a few ditches on sleeper bridges. The wood feels quite tranquil, and a rustic bench is located on raised ground, overlooking a beech grove - an ideal spot to pause for a while and take in the surroundings.

There are views across farm fields to the north, as well as over pasture to the south on the opposite side of the track, where there was once a group of small kiln ponds.

Please contact Liz Watson, the agent, if you would like to arrange a viewing.

Local area and history

Goldsborough is a quiet and attractive village, close to Knaresborough and Harrogate which between them boast an array of attractions including the Turkish Baths, Valley Gardens, RHS Harlow Carr, Mother Shipton's Cave and many more.

Evidence of early settlement in the village comes from a Viking hoard which was discovered in 1859 during construction outside the north wall of Goldsborough Church. Coins and artefacts dating from 700 to 1050 were found in a leaden chest including fragments of Viking brooches and arm-rings, together with 39 coins. It forms one of the largest collections ever discovered in the UK and is now held at the British Museum in London.

In the Domesday Survey of 1086 Goldsborough is referred to as "Godenesburg" and some fine Norman architecture can be found in St Mary's Church in the village.

Richard de Goldsburgh took the name of the village and his family held the manor for over four hundred years. In the 16th century there was a family feud and the thatched manor house situated at the far end of the village was burnt down. In 1599 Sir Richard Hutton, a London lawyer, originally from Cumbria, bought out all the claimants to the land and built Goldsborough Hall on its current site. Daniel Lascelles, whose family eventually became the Earls of Harewood, bought Goldsborough Hall and the estate in the late 1750s and the entrance gates to the village date back to this time. The Lascelles family used the Hall as the heirs in waiting's family home or as a Dower House. The village became famous in the 1920s when HRH Princess Mary, King Charles's great aunt, came to live at Goldsborough Hall following her marriage to Viscount Lascelles.

In the 1950s, following the death of Princess Mary's husband, the 6th Earl of Harewood, the village was put up for sale. In 1952, villages were able to purchase their own homes for the first time in 1,000 years.

The track crosses pastureland and the first wood gate is reached. This will be unlocked and there is space to park just beyond this point, to the side of the main vehicle route into the wood, keeping the access clear.

Please proceed on foot from this point.

It is approximately 400m walk to the crossroads, at this point turn left up the stone track.

After another 400m, the track crosses a deep dike, continue on for a further 450m when the track takes a sharp turn to the left.

Continue on the track for, approximately, 150m further from this bend. The entrance to Kiln Pond Wood is on your right and clearly marked with the name and a for sale sign.
